

The Minor Discoveries to which I have alluded are extremely Singular & Curious. I do not know whether they will prove of much Utility - of some use they will certainly be, and you will allow that it is Curious and fortunate to find an Unexplored Corner in Euclid at this late period. I am employ'd in digesting & Classing these minute Curiosities for I consider them only as such, every day some new Corollary or Proposition presents itself, however I think I shall have the Subject methodiz'd if they arriv'd previous to your Return -

I hope you enjoy uninterrupted health & that you partake fully of the pleasures & recreations which your very agreeable situation affords. I request of you not to hurry your thoughts to the subject of my letter until you are perfectly freed & disengag'd from pleasant & agreeable objects, as we shall have sufficient Leisure here during the Winter Season, to converse fully on all these

Topic as Court & I hope we shall as I am now Certain of being permitted to remain here in Case of a post order being issued to send away British Subjects.

I am however willing to be totally exempted from this Measure, and as I have very just grounds to go upon, & my memorial is well backed, I may work it out. — but the Subject of Memorials is I know Unseasonable to you: I therefore quit it & end this too long Epistle by assuring you with much Sincerity, of my particular esteem & hearty good Wishes for you & Mrs. & Family.

N^o 17. rue de Stalle Paris colle de Mevil. Montant.

John Lescure.

Mr. Gascoigne Family are gone into Germany, with a permission to remain 6 months absent, in Parole.

Mr. Robson is gone to England through Rotterdam with a similar permission &c. &c. ^{his last} the Charge can obtain

No favour as such. They have applied to the Cardinal Legate-ven. but to no Effect - the Benefit of Henry ceases here.

L'Escur

[Faint, illegible handwriting, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side of the page]