

Mr Gibson's compliments await Mr Manning, he feels himself much indebted to Mr M's politeness and begs leave to send by Bessie a £100 which he supposes may be the price of the work if not sufficient will Mr M have the goodness to mention the sum Mr G reiterates the sense of the obligation and wishes Mr M would command his services at any time —

Manning Esquire

Nov 30th 1809

— Manning Esquire