

I "Lady Baga com" I had yesterday afternoon I have full reason to believe if my Law bus will stand over till next week without inconveniencing anybody and in other respects I prefer coming next week rather than this. So if letters for I ought to have reciev'd yeo' morning but w<sup>t</sup> by some mistake of the postmen I did not recieve till the evening both pleased & surpris'd me and I may receive myself lucky in the post next mistake as it sav'd me a <sup>very</sup> disagreeable or non-fringe in my eyes, which my 20 hours ride the bread & butter affluence of good wine & bright rays. Not feeling the load for letters when I came down on the morning I bid of myself "Oh, they are come! Torn - well I must go & fetch my bundles & bed again, that's all" & the broad & stout went down without wry faces. I knew a man that was a good beginning his letter & robs any way except the the purpose - one who he seek amongst for accommodation to a family to improve & settle it with a degree, word or so & saying he he perge the market - regard itself & profess for many with the master brought back that I was was near it. That of he had not been cald by his wife wife whom ever I should know he ather said himself or done something that a have committes himself with a due might have been the consequence being this mind to be a good man I began to mention now I think of it that I will with great pleasure come to Jammal about next Monday unless any thing shou'd occur to force you to post a hayland or the way as they de combris when I shou'd have mandring. A proposal of letters (either both taken or been better as both together - from both letters for I suppose the churchwardens of St. Paul's parish send out letters of imitation of [unclear] (cost -) for & they must be printed the General - post office, that Tom is just without the levee of the 3 navy post - think for London. I sometimes put in at Croyed, with in good with Chalinity - I heart + Jinty <sup>the [unclear] of [unclear]</sup> has established himself of sundry post in London Sets through them. If his Regy will be over before I come. Surely? why for two reasons. 1st because a worthy Gentle man shows one of my Companion yesterday morning to black heart informs me he had had reciev'd enough. 2nd because, as the said who by gentlemen appear me, the streets in London are very disagreeable in Rainy weather. Age his says I, cordely agreeing with his own
